Orlando, Florida. In one of the largest concrete pours in Central Florida history 1,400 trucks hauled enough cement to cover a football field five feet deep. The occasion was the laying of the foundation for the 15-story tower of the new Florida Hospital.

Silver Spring, Maryland. A Global Tobacco Summit has been meeting with the purpose of using information sharing to provide insights for decision makers to guide the future of official programs. The Adventist Church has been in the forefront to help smokers kick the habit.

Loma Linda, California. Loma Linda University Health Care has earned the highest accreditation from the national commission that oversees and sets standards for health care facilities. An on-site review late last year found LLUHC in full compliance with and surpassing the rigorous requirements.

President's Corner

It is a little more than a week since my wife and I returned from the annual retiree convocation held at Southern Adventist University. I had no idea what to expect. Would the retirees be difficult to please? Would they be demanding? Or would they be excellent to work with?

The previous sentence is the answer. The retirees who attended were an absolute pleasure. When changes had to be made they "rolled with the change." We had some major "faux pas," but no one complained. My predecessor, Elder Jack Harris, often said the retirees were the best group in the work with which to work. I now understand why he felt the way he did.

Ann Steiner, director of the Retiree's Association at Collegedale, worked with us in a marvelous way. We can't say enough positive comments about her and her associates. Some 50 people who came had not pre-registered, and Ann did the necessary paperwork, had badges printed, and handled the unexpected surge in attendance.

The banquet on Thursday night was maxed out. We couldn't put anymore people in the SAU cafeteria. A special honor and salute was given to those who had served in the armed forces. All were amazed at how many of our retirees had given a portion of their lives to their respective countries.

The break-out sessions on Thursday afternoon and Friday were well attended. On Friday, a dozen retirees went white-water rafting on the Ocoee River. On the evaluation form, one person wrote that he (or she) could not understand why we would have a white-water rafting trip for seniors. But those who went were thrilled with the opportunity.

What would we do differently? We'd handle the advertising better, and get word out much farther in advance. This has been a learning experience, but all of us think we're prepared to do a better job next year.

There will be a telephone conference this Thursday with Del Johnson, Lyn Wick, and Don Schneider to debrief 2006 and make plans for 2007. I wish the results of that telephone conference could be included with this article, but it will be in the next "Reflections". We'll tell you next month where and when the 2007 Retirees Convocation will be held.

Until then, please plan on attending next year. We hope to have an attendance of 500 at the 2007 convocation.
